

My Learning Log: Making Links

I'm practising making links

Where I built on the knowledge I already had

When I used an analogy to better understand something

Where I met something new and asked myself "how is this the same and how is it different from things I already know"

Where I made a connection between something I'm learning is science and something in everyday life

???

Where I linked a new piece of Maths to something I already knew

When I was ...

The funniest link I've thought of this week ...

What I'm going to try next ...
