

Reflectiveness for Martians

A way with words

As a group think how you could explain to a Martian what reflectiveness means.

Time to think ... and share ideas

In pairs – Think of a time when each of you has been reflective, when you have been able to do something better as a result of thinking about the way you were going to do it. Take it in turns to interview each other about it. For example you might ask questions like ...

“Where were you?”

“Where did the reflection come in?”

“What were you trying to do?”

“What was the thinking process you went through?”

“What did this teach you that you were able to use again?”

“What happened first ... next?”

“What happened as a result?”

Me-now!

Write or draw something that's important to you about reflectiveness following on from your discussion.
