Building Learning Power

Helping young people become better learners

Leading a Learning Powered School

A one-day consultancy workshop for senior leaders as schools begin their engagement in building students' learning power.

How will the school benefit?

The consultancy workshop assists leaders to develop a strategic understanding of developing a learning powered culture throughout the school aiming to maximise the school's investment in the approach.

How will participants benefit?

The workshop enables participants to:

- Recognise and test how the philosophy of Learning Power will affect the whole school.
- Unpick the range of strategic aspects of making leaning power successful across the school.
- Appreciate their role in leading and managing the culture change in the school.
- Consider and prepare for key developmental changes and the policies and strategies that will ensure success.

What does the content include?

- The core model and principles of Building Learning Power.
- Stages of development in implementing learning power.
- Leading and managing culture change.
- Powerful CPD approaches for changing teachers' habits in the classroom.
- Policies to underpin learning power throughout the school.
- The 'how' of keeping the approach under review by observing for learning in classrooms.

What will TLO provide?

Prior to the session [Flipped classroom]

- On-line access to The Learning Focused School. A self reflection tool. Completion of this reflection prior to the workshop will add valuable content to the day.

During the session

- An experienced coach/facilitator.
- A booklet of resources for each team member for use during the day.
- A copy of The Learning Powered School.

After the session

- Participants will retain access to the Building Learning Power membership site.

Further Information

- This consultancy workshop can be run for members of one school's leadership team or for SLT representatives from a network or cluster of schools involved in BLP.
- The school's vision, CPD policy, Assessment Policy and current classroom observation schedules will be used during the session.

The depth and challenge of what is involved in building students' learning power is widely underestimated. It has to be viewed as a slow, sometimes difficult but hugely worthwhile process of culture change in schools and habit change by teachers. This workshop aims to give strategic leaders a guided opportunity to prepare and plan for that worthwhile journey.
