

Your attention to detail meant that you were able to spot the flaw and correct it.

By offering sound evidence to support your case, you have created a clear and convincing argument.

Celebrating Reasoning

Exploring both the pros and the cons of the situation enabled you to decide on a sensible course of action.

By seeking both evidence and counter evidence you were able to produce a well-balanced analysis.

Rehearsing it in your mind's eye beforehand certainly helped you to achieve a successful outcome.

Well done. By using your imagination you have come up with a unique solution to the problem.

Celebrating Imagining

You were right to follow your hunch and see it through to a successful conclusion.

By suspending reality and seeing it differently you have produced something original and innovative.

By keeping an open mind, you were able to understand this from another perspective.

The analogy that you created between this and something you had done before helped you to get your head round it.

Celebrating Making Links

Well done for spotting and avoiding the obstacle that tripped you up last time.

You did well to see how this idea relates to and could be useful in another subject.